PRACTICAL politicians will in future conciliate the people rather than the bosses.

GEN. LEW WALLACE says "It was not the tariff." Perhaps it is "Ben Hur."

THE election of Lewellyn in Kansas may serve to stimulate our Welsh tin-plate interests.

ANDREW CARNEGIE has learned that the American people know a bad thing when they see it.

MR. MCKINLEY served his masters, the plutocrats, too well. In a free country the people are the only masters.

THE election of Representative from the Eleventh District must be determined by honest votes and an honest count.

PRESIDENT HARRISON will take care that there are no Greshams among the four judges whom he is shortly to appoint.

COL. WHITEHEAD REID's best advice to ministers abroad now is: Never talk free trade in one country and high tariff in another.

A FRIENDLY feeling toward the United States will do us no harm in the monetary conference if there is anything genuine in that movement.

PRESIDENT HARRISON is reported as saying that he does not think much of the Carter. But the Carter does not think much of the ice-cart.

"BETWEEN us we evolved the end," says Chauncey Depew, speaking of himself and his friend Platt. What office does Chauncey expect from President Cleveland?

THE Democratic victory was written in the book of fate two years ago. When credit is given let it be for good intentions, not actual accomplishment which needed not the effort of anybody.

CAN it be possible that some of the custodians of the enormous Republican campaign fund kept so much of the money in their clothes that it did not reach such voters as were open to conviction?

THE evidence pointing to fraud in the Eleventh District Congressional election makes a thorough investigation of the return imperative. The people must be secured in the right to choose their representatives.

CHICAGO will hereafter play the same part in Illinois politics that New York city does in that State—namely, furnish Democratic votes enough to overcome any Republican majority the rural districts may be able to give.

CONSIDERING the lack of Republicans in North Carolina, it might be supposed that the remnant would endeavor to save every voter, but it appears they are making slaves of each other with bullets of protested lead. Twenty wounded and four dead make a pretty serious list for a one day's fight within the party.

PRETRADER KNUTE NELSON has been elected Governor of Minnesota by the Republicans. Let the g. o. p. beware lest a Republican free trade Senator be slipped in on them in one of the few Republican Legislatures that are left.

A PRESIDENT may be patriotic, wise and honest; he may be master of the science and art of politics and have a thorough understanding of economic questions, but if he slumps over the Podunk Post-office his virtues go for little.

THE Democrats who have already begun quarrelling over the spoils should remember that Mr. Cleveland does not believe in the spoils system and will not be a candidate for a third term. He is not likely to be less firm as a civil service reformer than during his former administration.

It is in States like Missouri and Kentucky where the Republicans really suffer. In these States, whether the State ticket is defeated or not, there are always good offices to be distributed under a Republican President. This year both the State and National tickets have been wiped out. Was there ever such another tale of woe?

WORK FOR THE NEW CONGRESS.

The suggestion that the Fifty-third Congress be called to meet immediately after Mr. Cleveland's inauguration is one which the President-elect will probably consider with favor. The Democratic party has promised to reduce the tariff and relieve the people of a burdensome iniquity; no time should be lost in redeeming its pledges. There is an imperative demand that this be done, and the work cannot be undertaken too soon.

But aside from this purely patriotic reason it is expedient that reform legislation be put in operation before the time to face another Congressional election. If nothing is done until the recently elected House meets in regular session, fourteen months hence, the repeal of the McKinley act with subsequent revenue measures cannot be looked for until late in the summer of 1894. In other words the country will have to justify or condemn a Congress whose work is not fairly before them. On the contrary, should the new Congress meet next March two or three radical measures—the freeing of raw materials and the reduction of those duties on manufactures which are particularly oppressive and hateful—can be put in operation and their beneficial effects be made to appear a year before the next election. The people will be relieved of a burden, business will be stimulated by the cheapening of raw materials and new markets opened up. Something substantial can be accomplished toward making good the promises of tariff reformers, which, of course, will strengthen the party for the next contest.

Every consideration of principle and expediency prompts such a course. The mandate of the people should be obeyed without delay.

THE OBSTRUCTIVE SENATE.

The grave doubt still existing with regard to the complexion of the Senate of the Fifty-third Congress and the opportunities afforded by legislative elections for reversals of the popular choice emphasize the objections to the present constitution of that body and the manner of choosing its members.

It is worth turning out that the Republicans have captured enough Legislatures charged with the duty of electing Senators, or if they are able by combinations with third party members or by manipulation and bribery to control enough of them to retain their majority in the United States Senate, the Democracy will have fought its good fight and the people will have revolted against robber protection and plutocracy in vain. The legislative elections may have been determined upon considerations having no connection with national issues. They may have been powerfully influenced by State questions or the local popularity of candidates, and yet upon them may depend the real outcome of the entire national struggle and the legislation of Congress for years.

Although the people condemned the protective system and plutocratic rule in the election of representatives two years ago, although they have repeated and emphasized that condemnation in the election by an overwhelming majority of a Democratic President and House this year, it is yet possible that the execution of the popular will may be prevented by a Republican majority in the Senate. Even if enough Democratic Legislatures have been chosen to secure a Democratic majority in the Senate, the opportunities to defeat the popular will are many. Seats in the Senate have been bought. The plutocrats have raised a slush fund of $5,000,000 to retain their valuable special privileges by election bribery. Why should they not raise a like sum to grasp the key of legislation and maintain the protective policy through the control of the Senate?

Thus the safeguard against hasty popular judgment which the founders of the Republic established through fear of untied Democracy becomes an obstruction to the carrying out of the deliberate and repeatedly expressed will of the people. It may serve as an instrument in the hands of organized greed for the perpetuation of robbery and oppression.

Experience suggests that both the time and method of electing Senators should be changed. They should be elected directly by the people on national issues. At least one-half of the Senators should be chosen at the presidential election so that the people may be enabled to bring the Senate into harmony with the other governmental departments and assure the immediate execution of their will.

AN INDEPENDENT PRESIDENT.

Mr. Cleveland will take office next March with the immense advantage of a commission from the people rather than from his party. In an emphatic and conspicuous sense he will be President of the country rather than a party chief. His most imperative obligation is to the people who nominated him in spite of the politicians. His majority is so enormous that he has every encouragement to act according to his own interpretation of the popular will.

At the outset he will be confronted by the spoils element of his party, which is large, noisy and hungry. His views on civil service reform were not emphasized by his practice during his former administration, but they were well known and often expressed. That he did not act upon them was due not to weakness, but to a desire to harmonize all factions and consolidate the party for the great contest which he foresaw so clearly. With an unprecedented popular backing he is now emancipated from such considerations. The integrity of his party can be assured only by a course of rigid duty closely adhering to the terms of his commission which impose upon him the necessity of taking the "offenses" out of politics. This will be easy for him to do because he does not want or expect a third term.

In like manner he is free to act upon his own convictions touching the tariff. His progressive ideas are well-known and the people have approved them. His good sense will prescribe the practical limitations to a liberal policy, but he is committed to a sweeping reduction of duties and the people will expect him to ignore the timid and half-hearted politicians who may be inclined to serve the possessors of "unearned advantages" and "unearned profits."

Mr. Cleveland's position is unique in its independence. The Democratic majority in Congress will be largely influenced by his wishes and if he does not shape legislation in accordance with the principles he has so often avowed he will sorely surprise and disappoint those whose confidence he has won.

REAL and true patriotism is to be found in Germany. Mr. Krupp, when he tests his great guns, makes cracks in all the brick and stone houses of Essen. If Mr. Krupp were to practice in that way in an American town he would be visited by a large number of his fellow-citizens at once, but the German people seem to think that the cracks in their houses amount to nothing so long as Herr Krupp's superior guns are keeping the Confederation from cracking.

This French Republic will have to build a bomb-proof house for Executioner Diebler. He cannot live in a tent at this time of year, and no landlord in Paris is willing to lease him a house. So useful an official should not be allowed to contract rheumatism merely because he is disliked by persons whose friends happen to have come in contact with him in the round of his duties.

A SARGANT voice in the West calls for Joe Simpson as the new Secretary of Agriculture. Jerry Simpson might make as much rainwater as Jerry Rusk did.

Now watch the sillies who lost wheel the minnies who won.

Our Honorable Allies.

From the New York World.

It is right to remember in this hour of great exultation and rejoicing that the victory was more than a merely partisan triumph.

The Democratic party is victorious because its candidates and principles commanded the confidence and approval not only of the conscientious Independents in politics, but of thousands of citizens who have never before wavered in their support of the Republican party.

The alliance of such men, because of their character and their motives, adds dignity and lustre to our success. It must be frankly acknowledged and cordially recognized. Without their splendid and powerful aid, victory, if achieved at all, would have lacked both the decisiveness and the promise that now happily characterizes it.

It behooves the statesmen who will have the direction of the affairs of the Democratic party henceforth to consider carefully the policy which brought such powerful reinforcement into our ranks, for it is the policy that will keep them with us permanently.

Hasn't It Gone?

From the Philadelphia Record.

The G. O. party must G. O.

in times of peace is a stomach in the public nostrils. As the present war tariff was the greatest achievement of McKinley's public career, the condemnation it has just received would seem to prove conclusively that McKinley was the millionaire across the neck of Republicanism and could not by any possibility have been made its savior.

MRS. PHILLIS SCHODDERS of Hall County, Ga., has been a consistent member of the Methodist Church for over 100 years. She is now vouchered for as being 105 years old and is cared for by one of her daughters, Mrs. Mabry, who is 87 years of age.

It is said that the first famous man dress-maker of Paris was the son of a poor Bavarian peasant, who lived on the outskirts of Munich. His name was Schomburg. He hung out his sign in Paris in 1720 and died forty years afterward, leaving an estate worth over 1,000,000 francs a year.

The husband of Rev. Mary T. Whitney, who has just accepted a call to the pulpit of the Second Unitarian Church in Somerville, Mass., was once preaching for a society there and his name was Schomburg. He hung out his sign in Paris in 1720 and died forty years afterward, leaving an estate worth over 1,000,000 francs a year.

Little Willie McKinley's chances for future political preferment seem to have gone a glimmering, as it were. When the Republican cartoonists have occasion in the future to draw him as Napoleon they had best surround the central figure with a sort of a dark, some swirl and label it "St. Helena."

He Is Clear Headed.

From the Chicago Herald.

Senator Hill says the Democrats must reform the tariff, reduce federal taxation and repeal the federal excise law. He describes the election law as a "vexatious" arbitrary and unnecessary measure, capable of great injustice and abuse. As usual, Senator Hill seems to have a clear idea as to what the Democratic purpose should be.

Poor Old Pennsylvania.

From the Philadelphia Record.

When the Republican party arose poor Pennsylvania was the last to join it; and Pennsylvania will be the last to leave it. When it shall sink beneath the political waves, water-logged and unmanageable, Pennsylvania will be found clinging to the wreck.

NIAGARA FALLS, N. Y., Nov. 12.—One hundred pounds of blasting powder and dynamite in the powder-house of Messrs. Douglas & Johnson, the canal and tunnel contractors, exploded at 10 o'clock this morning. John Hobson, master mechanic of all the immense works of these contractors, was killed and Sherman D. Smith (colored), a Roman, were badly cut about the face, head and body. Hobson was found lifeless with a fearful gash in his throat at the foot of a large pile of rocks. He had started to run from the boiler-house when the explosion occurred, and he was picked up and hurried some fifty feet. It is thought his throat was torn by a sharp piece of rock. The other men, Wier and De Smith, were fleeing for their lives when struck by flying pieces of timber and rock. Their condition is serious but not necessarily fatal. Those who were in the various buildings on the canal escaped injury except from the terrible shock.

For a distance of a mile around windows, sashes, etc., were blown out. Dishes on shelves were scattered, and in one house a woman was rendered unconscious from shock. The employees in and about the canal and tunnel works had many narrow escapes. The damage to buildings and houses in that part of the city is extensive and will foot up into the thousands. All the windows on the east side of the Niagara Falls Paper Co.'s plant were torn out. The fronts of stores and houses on Buffalo street were badly shattered.

Mr. Johnson says that the firm will be ready to resume work Monday night. The machinery, boilers and tracks were torn to pieces and heavy timbers buried under a pile of rubble. The master mechanic, who was killed, was a Canadian and about 40 years of age. It is not known whether he had a family.

WOMAN AND CHILD KILLED AND SEVERAL INJURED AT A FIRE.

MONTREAL, Nov. 12.—Half an hour before midnight last night a fire occurred in a row of tenement houses on Amherst street. When the flames arrived on the street three houses were in flames and the tenants were panic-stricken. Many of the inmates of the burning houses jumped from the windows and received injuries. Two men had their legs broken and a child was crushed while being tried out. A Mrs. Bonaparte jumped from a third-story window and was killed.

CARS TELESCOPED.

HAMILTON, O., Nov. 12.—The northbound passenger train on the Cincinnati, Hamilton & Dayton road due here at 2:35 p. m. yesterday, dashed into a cut of freight cars standing on the main track at South Hamilton Station. Five freight cars and an oil tank were completely demolished, and the passenger train was disabled. The engine and fireman jumped and were badly cut and bruised but were not dangerously injured. The passengers were badly frightened by the shock but none were seriously hurt.

CREMATED IN RED.

KOKOMO, Ind., Nov. 12.—Mrs. Mary Morris, aged 70 years, was buried to death yesterday at her home near here. She was addicted to smoking, and it is supposed that lighted cigarettes falling from her pipe set fire to the bed while she was lying down and helpless.

AN ARM CUT OFF.

SLATER, Mo., Nov. 12.—While coupling cars at a flag station east of here last night J. E. Turney, a brakeman of the C. & A. R. R., had his left arm so badly crushed between the bumpers as to necessitate its amputation.

WILLIE MACK'S DESTINATION.

From the Chicago Times.

Why Mrs. Mary Demming Visited Her Mother-in-Law's House.

Mrs. Mary Demming was in the Police Court this morning to answer a charge of facing the property of Mrs. S. C. Deumich of 330 Clark avenue, who is her mother-in-law. The trial brought to light a somewhat dramatic story of the troubled lives of a young married couple.

Last June Mrs. Demming was married to a son of Mrs. Deumich against her will and spite of her efforts to prevent it. Mrs. Demming is about 20 years of age, and the young man about the same age. The marriage was a bad one from the start, and the young man, who is said to have been trying to induce his wife to leave his mother's house, had moved out of his mother's house and into a small rooming house. The following day at about 6:00 o'clock the wife called at the residence of her mother-in-law and found her there. She was told that her mother-in-law had been killed by a fire in the house.
